STEEL TROPHY

The Republican Primary race for Pittsburgh Mayor has another candidate in the mix after Thomas West announced his campaign yesterday. West will be going up against Anthony Moreno, who previously served as a Pittsburgh police officer, for the Republican nomination. On the other side of the aisle, incumbent Mayor Ed Gainey is running against Democratic challenger Allegheny County Controller Corey O'Connor.

BIG WINNING

A $5 million scratch-off lottery ticket was sold in Wayne County, Pennsylvania. The retailer, Dave's Super Duper, will receive $10,000 for selling the ticket. According to the PA lottery, winners have one year to redeem their prize, should immediately sign the back of the card, and call the lottery.

CYBERATTACK

Last year, Change Healthcare, a subsidiary of UnitedHealth Group, was targeted by a ransomware attack that led to unauthorized access to medical records. The Office for Civil Rights Breach Portal puts the number of people affected at 190 million, way higher than the original estimate of 100 million. To date, the data breach is the largest in the history of healthcare and cost the company $3.09 billion. UnitedHealth believes the hacking group ALPHV was responsible for the breach.

SLOW DOWN!

Philadelphia will install over 40 speed cameras on U.S. Route 13, targeting major roads like Roosevelt Boulevard, Baltimore, Hunting Park, and Frankford Avenues. Mayor Cherelle Parker approved this plan to improve road safety. The new speed cameras are expected to be operational by summer. Cameras are also planned to be put on Broad Street and Route 611. The fines range from $100 to $150.

CHOCOLATE SHOES

Footwear manufacturer Ground Up International and the Hershey Company have announced a partnership to develop a footwear line. The collaboration will incorporate Hershey brands such as Kisses, Reese's, and Twizzlers into shoe designs. The shoes are expected to launch in Spring 2026. Neither Hershey nor Ground Up has released designs or concepts yet.

Happy Birthday

- Caleb Wright, Chief Strategist, Versant Strategies
