CLEAN OUT YOUR CLOSETS

Don't forget to bring in and donate any unwanted professional clothing tomorrow for WPGR and YWCA's annual Dress for Success event. They will be collecting clothing at Soldiers' and Sailors' Grove (behind the Capitol) tomorrow from 8:00AM until 12:00PM. Folks can just drive up and drop off! The groups ask that all clothing be ready to wear and on hangers, shoes and accessories can be in boxes or bags.

CLOUD NINE

Amazon announced plans to invest at least $20 billion in data centers across Pennsylvania, marking the largest capital investment in the state's history. The first sites will be in Luzerne and Bucks Counties, with more to follow, creating an estimated 1,250 jobs and supporting AI and cloud computing infrastructure. While the move is praised for its economic potential, it has raised concerns over environmental impact, tax breaks, and significant demand of energy. Amazon also launched a $250,000 community fund and pledged workforce training programs to support the initiative.

TRANSFER-MATION

PASSHE is picking up the tuition tab for 29 standout community college students. Selected by their colleges, the students will continue their education, free of charge, at one of PASSHE's 10 public universities. Since 2010, over 55,000 students have made the jump from community college to the PA State System. Most students go into high-demand fields

WE ARE...IMPROVING

Penn State University has settled a lawsuit with Spotlight PA, agreeing to major transparency reforms after being accused of violating Pennsylvania's Sunshine Act by holding private meetings. As part of the settlement, the university's Board of Trustees will undergo mandatory open meetings law training, provide clearer public disclosures about nonpublic meetings, and post agendas for executive committee meetings. The agreement will remain enforceable for 5 years.

Congratulations to Kyle Schaeffer for being named the new Executive Director of the House Local Government Committee. Kyle previously served as a Research Analyst for the House Transportation Committee.
