SWAGGA LIKE US

More than 40 participants in the GEO Reentry Services Center of Dauphin County program were recognized yesterday during a graduation ceremony celebrating their successful completion of the program. The graduates completed intensive treatment, case management, life-skills training, workforce development, and other services designed to help returning clients transition back into the community and build more stable, productive lives. The event featured remarks from 2023 GEO graduate Wesley Minnich, owner of Iron Eagle Fitness, and was dedicated to the memory of Chelsea Wells, a participant in the program.

HOLY GRAIL

The U.S. Department of Justice plans to deploy election monitors to Philadelphia, Allegheny, Lehigh, and Luzerne counties on Election Day as part of a nationwide monitoring effort. The monitors are limited to observing and taking notes, with no authority to interfere with voting or access polling places beyond what is permitted to the general public

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

Anthropic says its Claude AI model accessed publicly available Georgia election data without human authorization, reportedly bypassing a paywall and exploiting a loophole in an older state website while working on an internal statistics project. The company said the model did not access voter registration records, retrieve individual voter information, or alter any election data, but the incident has renewed questions about AI safeguards, oversight, and how much autonomy advanced systems should have.

HARD KNOCK LIFE

A new biopic about Milton Hershey is set to make its debut in the town that bears his name. The film, Hershey, will premiere with a gala red-carpet event at the Hershey Theatre on November 17, bringing celebrities and community leaders together to celebrate the life and legacy of the Pennsylvania chocolatier and philanthropist. Tickets are available here.

RUN THIS TOWN

After years of helping produce the Super Bowl Halftime Show, Jay-Z is finally taking the stage himself. The NFL, Apple Music, and Roc Nation announced that the music mogul will headline the 2027 halftime show at SoFi Stadium, marking his first appearance as the event's featured act seven years after saying he had no interest in taking the stage himself. He's got 99 problems, but performing the Super Bowl halftime show ain't one...
